

STATEMENT FOR THE 1 JULY 2019 – 30 JUNE 2020 REPORTING PERIOD

Introduction

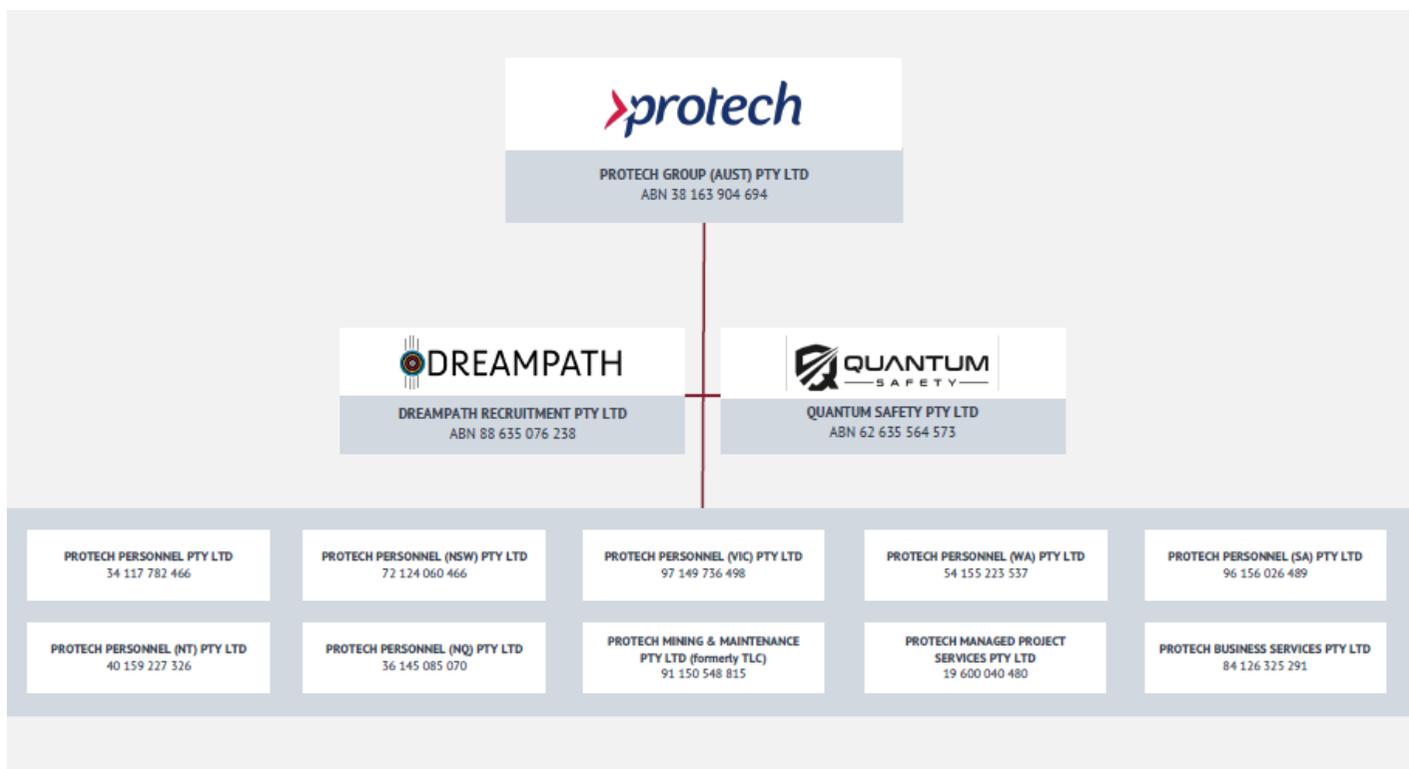

Protech Group (Aust) Pty Ltd ABN 38 163 904 694 and its subsidiaries ("Protech") recognise the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) which came into effect on 1 January 2019 and believe that all businesses have an obligation to prevent slavery and human trafficking. Protech are committed to preventing slavery and human trafficking within our business and within the supply chains through which Protech operate.

Modern slavery may include the trafficking of people, forced labour, servitude, and slavery. As a large employer in Australia, Protech take our responsibility seriously and our processes around applicant and client engagement ensure our employees are alert to the signs of exploitation, and Protech are committed to acting promptly and effectively should it be identified.

The Act requires reporting entities subject to the Act, to produce an annual modern slavery statement. This statement highlights the steps Protech has taken to ensure there is no slavery or human trafficking occurring within Protech or within our supply chain. Protech's commitment to our purpose to be a 'Positive influence in people's lives' as well as our first corporate value of 'We put people first' are key drivers for our reputation within our market and are essential for our continued success.

Our Supply Chains

Our supply chains include, but are not limited to, sourcing field employees for clients. This may involve the introduction by external agencies to Protech of applicants for onward supply to our clients such as Job Network Agencies and First Nation Community Programs. These external agencies are vetted and confirmed for compliance and all potential field employees are put through our due diligence processes.

In addition, Protech's supply chain for the delivery of recruitment services includes the provision of Personal Protective Equipment and Pre-employment medicals. All suppliers and partnerships are carefully selected and Protech expect our clients, and suppliers to aim for high ethical standards and to operate in an ethical, legally compliant and professional manner by adhering to our Terms of Business and Codes of Conduct. Protech also expect our clients and suppliers to promote similar standards in their own supply chain.

OUR COMPLIANCE PROGRAM

Our Policy on Slavery and Human Trafficking

Protech recognise, respect, and protect the human rights of our employees, as well as those of our clients, suppliers, business partners and the communities affected by our operations:

- Employees should be free to choose to work for their employer and to leave the company upon reasonable notice.
- All employees must be provided with a clear contract of employment, which complies with local legislation.
- All employees must be treated in a fair and equal manner and with dignity and respect.
- Any form of unlawful discrimination, victimisation or harassment on grounds including, but not limited to, marital or civil partnership status, sex (including gender reassignment), race (including colour, ethnic and national origin, nationality), disability, sexual orientation, having or not having dependents, religious belief or political opinion, age, trade union activity and irrelevant criminal record should be prohibited.
- All applicable laws and industry standards on employee wages, benefits, working hours and minimum age should be adhered to in all countries of operation, without any unauthorised deductions.
- Suppliers should observe the provisions of the International Labour Organization such that any young persons under the age of 18 should not be employed to work at night or for any hazardous work and their employment should not harm the young person's education, health or physical, mental, moral or social development. Similarly, young persons below the age of 16 may be employed provided their parent/guardian signs a consent form and provides this to the Employer.
- All slavery and human trafficking laws must be complied with including, but not limited to, the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth). Suppliers must ensure their business operations are free from slavery and human trafficking practices whether in Australia or elsewhere, both internally and within their supply chains and other external business relationships.
- Protech are committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business.

Our Risk of Modern Slavery Practices

To identify and manage risk Protech have a robust risk management program which includes regular review of risks and drives actions to assist Protech to identify, assess, monitor, and manage our business risk.

Protech recognise that as an employer of on-hired employees who are engaged in work on sites where Protech do not have operational control presents a risk for modern slavery. As a result, our systems and processes have been established to ensure that the selection of our clients, field employees, and supply chain partners are closely managed and to that this risk is mitigated. In addition, our programs of regular communication and site visits validate our ongoing partnerships. This forms part of our ongoing commitment to operating a lawfully compliant and ethically sustainable business.

Our Due Diligence Process for Slavery and Human Trafficking

Field Employee Selection

Protech undertake our 'Protech Certified Process' for the onboarding of all our field employees which outlines a series of 10 strict compliance checks to be carried out for all field employees engaged including but not limited to verifying the identity of each worker and their right to work before supply commences. Protech systems provide a full letter of engagement for each field employee outlining the terms and conditions of employment including the pay rate and entitlements as well as providing the Fair Work information statement.

Client Assessment and Approval

Each client Protech supplies is subject to a rigorous assessment process prior to supply including terms of business and/or contract terms review to ensure compliance, as well as a physical site check to verify the conditions within which our field employees will be deployed.

Labour Hire Licensing

Protech is a Labour Hire, or has applied for the relevant license, as required under the various state licensing schemes. With regards to the high risk sectors identified by the Migrant Workers' Taskforce report delivered in 2019, Protech only supplies limited field employees in the meat processing sector and does not provide to the horticulture, cleaning and security sectors.

Industry Body Participation

Protech are active participants with a number of industry bodies including the Australian Industry Group and the Recruitment, Consulting and Staffing Association where a member of our executive team holds a council position. Our partnership with these organisations includes advocating for industry best practice standards and improving education outcomes for both within our industry and the broader client and supply chain.

Supply Chain Assessment

As part of our commitment to identify and eradicate slavery and human trafficking, Protech have in place a process to undertake due diligence on our supply chain network to ensure compliance with legislative obligations; such compliance may form part of our contractual relationship with suppliers. Protech's leadership team have undertaken site visits to our key offshore partners to verify the engagement and working conditions of our supply chain partners.

Reporting Program

All Protech employees have access to voice concerns, through local and national reporting mechanisms or through the Protech Whistleblower Standard. Protech is committed to protecting employees when disclosing malpractice and will ensure that all disclosures made in good faith will be treated confidentially and without fear of retaliation.

Training

All staff within Protech are expected to comply with all laws and act in accordance with local guidelines and regulations and act with integrity and honesty. A training module on modern slavery and human trafficking is also available via an e-learning module that forms part of a training package undertaken by new employees. Should any of our employees need any additional information or support with regard to human trafficking, forced labour, servitude and slavery this will be provided.

OUR CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT APPROACHAssessing the effectiveness of the actions taken

Protech will undertake ongoing assessment of our supply chains by evaluating information received from our suppliers and to promptly act on allegations or findings of involvement in such practices to ensure continuous improvement of our outcomes. Protech commit to an annual review process whereby members of senior management will review our response to modern slavery.

Looking forward

Over the next reporting period, Protech will continue to assess ways to reduce the risks of modern slavery and some steps to be taken will include:

- Update Protech Supplier process so that potential and current suppliers disclose their modern slavery risk mitigation strategies.
- Increase the number of Protech employees who are provided with dedicated training on modern slavery laws.
- Review our offshore partnership compliance program.
- Set up an annual review process with members of senior management.

This statement is made pursuant to the Act and constitutes Protech's slavery and human trafficking statement in respect of the 2019-20 financial year. All subsidiaries have been consulted to develop this modern slavery statement, including briefing with and approval from the Managing Director and Executive Leadership Team.
